

DOES FACULTY REALLY DO RESEARCH?

COME TO PGH 232 @ 10:00 AM - Sep 12, 14, 19, 21

A series of 15 min. Mini-Talks by Computer Science Faculty

All are invited - Graduate Students must attend!

Monday, September 12, 2005

George Zouridakis	Biomedical Imaging
Rakesh Verma	Research Topics in Formal Methods and Security
Ioannis Kakadiaris	Multispectral Biometrics and Cardiovascular Risk Screening
Albert Cheng	Design and Verification of Real-Time and Embedded Systems

Wednesday, September 14, 2005

Venkat Subramaniam	Developing applications with Mock objects
Ernst Leiss	Cyber Security
Ricardo Vilalta	Pattern Classification Theory and Applications
Rong Zheng	Networking Research: Are We There Yet?

Monday, September 19, 2005

Christoph Eick	Data Mining
Stephen Huang	Intrusion Detection and Cybersecurity
Jean-Francois Paris	File Access Prediction
Lennart Johnsson	Grid Application Development Software for Scientific Applications
Jaspal Subhlok	High Performance Grid and Global Computing

Wednesday, September 21, 2005

Kam-Hoi Cheng	A Learning Program System (ALPS)
Barbara Chapman	Compilers: The Missing Link
Ioannis Pavlidis	Imaging Facial Physiology for Deception Detection
Shishir Shah	Quantitative Imaging: Applications in Life Sciences
Edgar Gabriel	Parallel Computing